CONGRESSIONAL HAPPENINGS IN WASHINGTON

By CLARENCE J. BROWN
Member of Congress,
Seventh Ohio District

Congress is not in session this week, having adjourned last Thursday until Monday, July 22nd, in order that the Democratic Members may attend the Democratic National Convention now being held in Chicago.

By the time this appears in print the general public should be receiving the answer as to whether or not Franklin Delano Roosevelt is to be a candidate for a third term. Even as the Convention opening approached, political wisecracks in Washington were still undecided as to what the President's final verdict would be. One thing is and has been certain; he can have the nomination handed him on a silver platter. In fact, he will have to say "No" in a loud and definite tone to keep from being the candidate, for everything is all set to name Mr. Roosevelt on the first ballot. Just to go out on the end of a limb, this column is now predicting that Mr. Roosevelt will accept the call and be a candidate.

Just who the candidate for Vice President on the Democratic ticket will be is entirely in the lap of the gods, providing Roosevelt does not advise the Chicago Convention whom he wants as his running mate. Of course, if Roosevelt does not run he will undoubtedly dictate his heir as the Vice Presidential nominee. However, if the choice of a Vice President is left to the Convention, look for Speaker of the House Wm. B. Bankhead, Floor Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas, or Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, to be chosen. If Roosevelt does not accept the Presidential call then Secretary of State Cordell Hull, of Tennessee is rather certain to be the nominee.

As predicted last week, the appointments of Henry L. Stimson, of New York, as Secretary of War, and Col. Frank Knox, of Chicago and New Hampshire, as Secretary of the Navy, were confirmed by the Senate by heavy votes. Both men have assumed their positions. Stimson is not new to his tasks, having been Secretary of War under President Taft and Secretary of State under President Hoover. Col. Knox has not held public office in the past.

The Senate last week passed the authorization bill for a four billion dollar expansion program for the American Navy. The bill was passed by the House and now goes to the President for signature. Under the provisions of the new law, the size of the American Navy will be increased approximately 70% and will give the United States a navy larger than the combined fleet of any other two nations on the face of the earth. It will also provide two battle fleets; one for the Pacific and one for the Atlantic.

Last Wednesday President Roosevelt sent to Congress his message requesting additional appropriations of approximately five billion dollars for National Defense. The request was roughly divided into one hundred million dollars for Naval purposes; and four hundred million dollars for Army expansion. Much of the money will go to following up the Air Force and in obtaining vital raw materials for use in manufacturing war needs. In the message the President pledged the Congress that he was not preparing for an offensive war, but only to defend the United States and the Western Hemisphere against aggression. According to the latest plans of the Administration, the standing army of the United States will eventually consist of 1,200,000 men, with 800,000 additional reserves available for immediate mobilization at any time.

The House last week, after many weeks of delay and a great deal of hard fighting, passed the Hatch Act extending the provisions of the present law against participation in politics by governmental employees to State and local employees receiving all or a part of their compensation from Federal Funds. When the House amendments are accepted by the Senate and the bill is signed by the President, it will no longer be legal for employees of state Old Age Pension and Highway Departments, and other like state divisions obtaining funds from the Federal treasury, to take active part in political campaigns.

Wendell Wilkie, Republican Presidential nominee, made a flying visit to Washington the first part of last week, at which time he attended a Congressional dinner in his honor. Republican members of Congress met

A non-resident jury awarded a verdict to the plaintiff in a recent trial but commissioners had since signified their intention of appealing the case. The plaintiff originally requested $5,000.

GAYLORD LEE SUFFOCATED IN GRAIN BIN

Gaylord Lee, 40, carpenter of Glendale, O., working for Opekasit Farms, Federal Pike, was found dead in a collapsed corn bin about 10:30 Tuesday morning, death being due to suffocation. According to Dr. H. C. Schick, coroner, Lee had been dead about thirty minutes.

Employees on the farm missed Lee for some time and became alarmed. Investigation indicated he had attempted to climb a partition and his added weight caused it to collapse enveloping him in the corn. Lee has been employed at the farm for several days doing carpenter repair work.

Lee is married and leaves his widow and two daughters in Glendale. The body was removed to the Stewart, Burr and Powers Funeral home, Jamestown, and later taken to Glendale.

One-Room School To Be Abandoned In Greene County

Another of the fast-disappearing "little red schoolhouses" will fade from the Greene County educational scene Aug. 17 when the East Point one-room school is offered for sale at public auction on the premises by the Xenia Township board of education. The sale will include one and one-half acres of land on which the building stands.

County Supt. H. C. Aultman said East Point is one of three Xenia Twp. schools not being used for educational purposes. The others are the Anderson and Hawkins buildings.

Xenia Township has 10 school buildings under its jurisdiction. Seven are of the one-room variety and the others are two-room structures. The district is the only one in the county still operating the small schools. In the remaining townships, no schools are smaller than three rooms.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

3264 Fenton St.,
Edgewater, Colo.,
July 9th, 1940

Friend Karth:
Your issue of the Cedarville Herald of Friday, July 5th arrived on scheduled time, as usual, reaching us nearly always in Monday morning's R. F. D. mail. There's not much doing with us, until its columns are thoroughly gone over, and the news from our old home community gets a lodgment within our receptive noddies. How wonderfully changed is the situation there, compared to what we left in 1903. But the story of its happenings today are not less interesting than nearly four decades ago, when but few of the citizenry were not personally known to us. And what a list of them we were able to (without assumed familiarity) address by their front names, while it was a matter of common courtesy to be accorded the cognomen of just abbreviated "Din". "Mr. Collins" only awaited us from most people after our migration south and west. Linn Wilson and Lee B. Corry, both former school mates of mine, were in the latter's company in Clark's Run watershed, astonished in their last remembered greetings, by bursting out in the cherry greeting of, "How are you, 'Dinsmore'?" Lee came hunting me up in my employment as a handy man in one of Denver's large baking establishments years ago. Again I clasped his and his congenial wife's hand in an unexpected meeting at a mutual friend's home in Yellow Springs, and still, there I was "Dinsmore" in 1912. It was on this, my only visit to date in nearly 40 years to Ohio, that Linn (I'll not call him W. L.) Wilson also gave me the double syllable greeting of first name, and this was seconded (but by only true hearty companions in life, remembered in Church and school life as a charming character, Emma McFatterson. What was our glibness on learning through the columns of the Herald that Linn had been taken to the hospital for surgical treatment recently but later how happy we were to know he had been able to return to his sister's home recuperating there, until latest columns of your paper advise his ability to once more care for himself. What an interest is ours, in those particularly as associates of young manhood days and it is our privilege to find happiness in any good fortune coming to them. Grieved were we to note such serious, ordinarily, mishap to this cherished personality, cousin Lucy Barber, who's ministry in the community and best interest has been a guiding star in life, and a boon to any who came within contact with her character and influence. How beautifully did Della Spencer Bull illustrate in those recent lines contributed to your paper, the appreciation deservedly tendered those who endeavor to make life worth living. What cloud of darkness had been lifted and a joy it was also to know that Mack and Della were so nearly back to normalcy in home life.

But returning to your last issue of the Herald July 5th. I wonder how many expressions of congratulations you have received over it. 'Tis simply full of interest, with its columns written up in local news, congressional news, and editorial opinion. That "Copper Kettle" gave us an insight to world wide matters of concern to any true American, not equalled by our Metropolitan copies of "Denver Post"—best newspaper in the U. S. A. As it is accredited to be, maybe it's no particular sin to tout your own home, when oodles of people think it's telling the truth. 'Tis fine for you to furnish readers with such Washington, D. C., as given us by your 7th Ohio Cong. District representative, Clarence J. Brown, who certainly is no blind partisan in politics. It's a dead sure thing you can't leave Cedarville out of a mix up with national affairs. Just look, where Walter the writer among the U. S. A. instillation of your new College President will be a noteworthy event. This little Cedarville College is a monument of honor to the old home community and really a "fine investment" for that section of Ohio. We United Presbyterians all over America can take pride in the position it aided Alvin Orr and Homer Henderson to attain as Moderators, while Ed McCowan also a Moderator, while perhaps an alumnus, got a good head start for the Pastors of U. P. isn't largest congregation in Mt. Lebanon Church, Pittsburgh; and by the way from whence we (at Denver U. P.) received our present pastor, Rev. Wm. Scott McMunn, having been Asst.

OHIO'S CORN CROP BELOW 1939 AVERAGE

State and federal crop experts reported today that excessive June rainfall curtailed sharply Ohio's anticipated corn and wheat yields for 1940.

The report, based on a July 1 survey, indicated a corn crop of 132,000,000 bushels, compared with 171,250,000 in 1939. The expected 41 bushels to an acre does not contrast unfavorably with other recent years, however, due largely to expanded use of hybrid seed.

Heavy infestation of scab, a disease of dampness, eliminated earlier prospects of a bumper wheat crop. The report estimated the 1940 yield at 33,780,000 bushels, only about 1,700,000 over 1939. Quality of grain also is expected to suffer.

Smaller fruit crops also are in prospect, the report said with the peach yield set at only one-third of average, due to unusually severe winter weather.

On the other hand, hay prospects were reported to be exceptionally good; soybeans good with an acreage 30 per cent greater than 1939; potatoes, lower yield; sugar beets and tobacco, slightly lower yields with curtailed acreage.

Average Price of Farm Lands is Increased $6

Farm land changing ownership in Greene County during the last twelve months showed an average price per acre increase of near $6 over the previous fiscal year, according to the annual report of County Recorder E. D. Beatty for the period ending July 1.

Land during the last fiscal period brought an average price of $66.21 an acre, compared to $60.72 for the preceding year. This price is based on real estate transfers where the acreage price is stipulated principally land sold at sheriff's sales and executor's and administrator's sales.

Farmers Can Renew Corn Loans

Farmers who have 1937 and 1938 corn stored under the AAA loan program may now redeem their loans and make room for the 1940 corn crop, it was announced this week by Joseph B. Mason, Chairman of the Greene County AAA Committee.

Farmers may redeem their 1937 and 1938 corn loans at 58 cents net per bushels until October 1, 1940.

"This adjustment will strengthen the Ever-Normal Granary by enabling farmers to redeem their older corn for feeding to livestock and to retain in storage on their farms corn which was produced more recently and which has better keeping qualities," Chairman Mason said.

Greene County farmers have preferred to repay their loans on 1937 and 1938 corn and retain their 1939 corn under seal. Accrued charges against the old corn amounted to 67 cents per bushel prior to the adjustment while charges against 1939 corn amount to only about 58 cents per bushel. This action on the part of the Commodity Credit Corporation now places stored corn of the last three crops on virtually the same redemption basis.

Farmers who redeem their 1937 and 1938 loan corn will be paid a storage allowance of seven cents per bushel for 1939-1940 storage in case the allowance was not advanced to them for constructing additional storage facilities at the time they extended their loans last fall. Under original loan extension terms, this storage allowance was to have been paid only to farmers who delivered corn to the Corporation in settlement of loans at the close of the loan period. Farmers may now deduct the seven cent storage allowance when paying the loan leaving a net of 51 cents per bushel to be paid when liquidating the loan.

Judge Johnson Praised By U. P. Minister

Rev. C. E. Hawthorne, pastor of Wallace Memorial United Presbyterian Church in Washington, D. C., has written President A. D. Henderson of Antioch College as follows about the issue of freedom of political thought aired in the press recently:

Dear Sir:

I have carefully read the Antioch College Bulletin, and the College Record, as well as your own commencement address, and feel led to ask the courtesy of expressing my own feeling in matters discussed in these writings.

May I say in the beginning that I was the guardian of a former Antioch student, Donald Charles, who finished his college work in Ohio State, and is a successful business man in the middle West. Also I am the pastor of another former Antioch student, Terrell Crum, who is now taking his doctor's degree in Harvard. Both students were taken out of Antioch for the very things that are discussed in your printed matter.

I have read rather carefully anything sent to the manse from the college for a number of years and I have been impressed with one thing primarily—the school seems possessed with the idea of being liberal that this, above all else, is to be desired in true education. But frankly I think your school is one of the narrowest of the narrow. In the old days of farming a man stood on the hayrack and "built" the load. He had to be careful lest he run it to one side and the whole load slide off to the ground. In my humble opinion you have built to the left side of the load too heavy, and now you find yourself in difficulty. "Religion" in Antioch has ever been mentioned with an apology. You made of it a "straw-man" of your own creation. This "straw-man" has not been Christianity at all, but a miserable substitute. This has been reflected from your professors, from the writing that have come home from the school, and naturally from many of the student body. You have failed to build the right side of the load.

I do not know Judge F. L. Johnson, and have only the excerpts in the Antioch Record, and your address as a guide, but more power to him.

I too am interested in youth, have scores of them in my church. It would surprise some of you liberals to realize how vital the gospel of Christ can be to young people when it is put before them in a true, practical way, instead of in an emancipated form with apologies.

I am glad that the Young Communist League has been abandoned in Antioch. Such a group has no place in the American system of education. The attempt to gloss the matter over fails definitely. "Witch-burning" makes a rather poor illustration.

I hope I have not spoken rudely, but I feel very deeply in these matters. Thanking you for your favors, I remain

Yours sincerely,
C. W. Hawthorne, Pastor.

MOVED TO FARMERSVILLE

Mr. L. F. Tindall and family moved last week to Farmersville, O., where the former is assistant cashier of the bank in that place.

CIO HALTS H. & A. PLANT OPERATIONS

The Hoover & Allison Co., cordage manufacturers, Xenia, was forced to seek protection in Common Pleas Court Monday, when granted an injunction against the Xenia Textile Workers' Union, No. 21, CIO affiliate, where a strike had been called and strikers had blocked the gates at the plant against independent workers and the superintendents and management as well.

C. F. Albrecht, head of the union, Cincinnati, took the lead in picketing the plant and would not permit union or non-union workers to enter.

Charles L. Darlington, president of the company, through the law firm of Smith, McCallister & Gibney, sought protection through the Common Pleas Court and was granted an injunction by Judge Frank L. Johnson against further interference. President Darlington issued a statement protection would be granted all those who desired to work if they returned. The writ was served by Sheriff George Henkel and Chief of Police O. H. Cromwell, Monday at 2 P. M. The strikers withdrew to permit the opening of but one gate.

The strikers marched in a circle around each gate to keep anyone from entering at the same time, singing "God Bless the CIO" to the tune of "God Bless America."

For more than a week the union representatives and company officers have attempted to settle the differences which did not concern either hours of labor or wage rate. The union demanded recognition of the union for closed shop and also the right to dictate who should and should not work, union members to have preference to all jobs over non-union men. The company held for the right to have the plant managed by those chosen for that purpose.

Tuesday the plant opened with all the non-union employees returning and about one-third of the union members.

The strike situation in this county is but a sample of what industry all over the country has had to face under the Communist New Deal. In case of the Xenia plant the CIO demanded management of a concern it did not even own.

"Why Did They Seal His Lips?"

"The Man Who Talked Too Much," one of filmdom's most thrilling exposes of illegal law practices will be on view at the State Theater, Springfield, O., Thursday, July 19 and playing three days. Opening with a preview Saturday night in "Lillian Russell," starring Alice Fay and Don Ameche. George Brent and Virginia Bruce are co-starred in "THE MAN WHO TALKED TOO MUCH."

MAY GO TO ELWOOD

It has been suggested that Greene county send a delegation to the notification speech of Wendell Willkie at Elwood, Ind., next month and join with the Dayton and Springfield delegations on a special train. Elwood asks motorists to park outside the city as no cars will be allowed on any street that day.

DR. MCCHESNEY TO SPEAK BEFORE FORUM

Dr. W. R. McChesney will be guest speaker at the July meeting of the Farm Forum, Monday evening, July 22, at Geyer's. Dr. McChesney will speak on "Our Country and the Present World Situation". The Sugarcreek township committee composed of Weller Hains, Harry Stephens, James Turner, Vaughn Lewis and James Miller are in charge of the program. The Sugarcreek Warblers will furnish vocal music. Members of the Quartette are Roger Turner, James Turner, Vaughn Lewis and Dave Kemp. Instrumental music of saxophone and cornet will be furnished by Louise Turner, Phyllis Shawhan and Dorothy Jean Lammie.

Sound pictures will be shown on the new motion picture equipment recently purchased for the county by Greene County organizations and merchants.

Supper will be served promptly at 8:00 o'clock and reservations should be made at the county agent's office.

LITTLE WHEAT SOLD

The low price of wheat (New Deal prosperity) is said to be the cause of few farmers selling wheat this season. Most of the wheat is being stored in elevators and many are taking the government loans. A number of farmers are storing wheat for hog feed as was done last year.

One London elevator operator stated Saturday that he had taken in 10,000 bushels of wheat up to that time but had been able to buy outright only 395 bushels.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Pastor at Mt. Lebanon. No small recommendation for him, and to us a cherished Pastor, universally loved, by all. Maybe I can be pardoned for not attaching the proper D's and so forth for these eminent Divines, but I mention them as I knew them "just as college boys." Also I note your Rev. Ralph A. Jamieson has come to the peak in Greene Co.'s Ministerial Association. That speaks well for him and we feel as though we knew him, by reason of our personal regard for his brother, C. M. Jamieson, recently deceased, a man whose devotedness to everyone's highest respect as a consistent Christian gentleman. 'Twas a pleasure to consider him an associate in Bible study, particularly. Also we have a royal pair, viz. Ross and Beth Jamieson Chappell, as leaders in Denver's 1st U. P. congregation, niece of Cedarville's pastor. Now about that Copper Kettle—by "Dublin Brass." Never knew Dublin, but from away out here he looks something like Karl Bull used to. And what a lot of information "Dublin" chuckles into that "readin'" matter of his. We Buckeyes out here had nothing against Sen. Taft, but Willie stole our thunder and we, us and co. telegraphed, hounded and wrote Gov. Ralph Carr, (our State Delegation Chairman) "We want Willie," so he jumped on Willie's band wagon and stuck till Michigan and Penn. handed over our bacon. We like Gov. Bricker for what he did, too. Yours for success Nov. 5th as you'll find Colorado a "Ridin'" em Cowboy" Gang.—D. S. C.

Former National Committee Chairman John Hamilton, was named as Executive Assistant to Mr. Martin.

Former Mayor Answers Charges in Court Suit

Charles D. Juvenal, former South Charleston mayor who is carrying on a suit of his late wife, Mrs. Ethel A. Juvenal, for more than $20,000 claimed due under an annuity, reiterated his right Saturday to press the case. Answering defense charges that three beneficiaries under the will should be the proper parties to continue the fight Juvenal replied that he was specifically instructed by the will to collect the money and make distribution. Further, he asserted, he has been empowered by the beneficiaries—the Houston Library of South Charleston and Wellesley College of Wellesley, Mass.—to proceed in their behalf.

Son-in-Law Willie

By Charles Evans Lammie

"Rushville's Rescued Son-in-Law" Wendell L. Willie is a successful Rush County Farmer. That's the legend I read on store placards in the quiet capital of Rush County. "Willie" tried they were mostly placed all over the downtown section under the caption, "Willie's Visitor". A huge banner over the main intersection of streets, at Court House Corner greets you with the words, "Rushville Presents Wendell L. Willie, Rush County Farmer".

You realize you are on Willie's ground. While Elwood, fifty miles north has leaped into national prominence as the birthplace of the Republican Presidential Candidate, Rushville may justly claim him as a son-in-law. Mrs. Willie is from the town. Her mother still resides in this quiet little city of six thousand.

"Well, isn't that interesting? And what's her name?" I asked. "Miss Mary Sleeth," was the prompt reply. "She learned farm management as a girl when her father died. She was an only child. Backed by her mother she took over the family farm. It never had a hired manager. When Mr. Willie acquired his farms, he contracted for her management. She goes to each farm every day. This is a driving distance of sixteen miles".

"Did Mr. Willie ever eat in your restaurant?" I inquired. "Oh, yes, many times," answered the young man who is the proprietor's son, "but we did not realize that some day he would be so widely known. He came and went just like other folks. His mother-in-law Mrs. Willie, came here occasionally".

The eating place was high class in neatness and quality of food. It had a sort of homey, mother's-dining-room atmosphere. A pioneer grandfather's bench graced the cement walk in front of the curb. It was twelve feet long and fifteen inches wide. There was no back. Six stout legs driven into the three-inch thickness at the proper angle made it a substantial element of hospitality for those who happen along to pass opinion on the latest news, exchange yarns, or speculate on Willie's chance in November. It was the only place with a bench in front.

"Do you know that our county is the greatest hog-raising county in the United States?" ventured the young waiter. At my rather skeptical look, he reassured me that the farm authorities and stock men say so. "And then, this is the home of Senator Watson?" he added with pride. "I mean to say he used to be a senator. He still lives in Washington but he votes here".

"Where do you live?" he questioned as though I might have been a Fifth Column emissary, but he did not ask further when I said, "We are headed for Cincinnati".

I thought of his town's enthusiasm, and his own expression of it. What a healthy symptom to tell the world
